

This document presents the material from the 2014-2015 Christian Life Survey that was administered on 25 Christian college campuses in the United States. Results can be seen at <http://tucse.taylor.edu/research>. The online survey was formatted differently than you will see in this document. The question sets are in the order they appeared online but the actual order of the questions within most sets was randomized.

Ready to take a look at your own spiritual life?

This survey provides a way to think about your own spiritual journey. There are no right or wrong answers--after all you are probably in a different place in the journey than any other particular person. This diagnostic survey just lets you take your own spiritual pulse so you can compare it to the general responses of everyone who has taken the survey.

Research Participation Information.

(Universities require that certain information be made available to all research participants--so here it is!)

Principal Investigator: Steven Bird, Taylor University Center for Scripture Engagement

Purpose of Research: This research will help participants to gain insight into their own spiritual life and provide larger research insights into students' spiritual lives.

Specific Procedures to be Used: Students are invited to complete an online survey that provides a comprehensive look at their own spiritual life. It takes about half an hour to complete.

Risks to the Individual: There are no risks to any participants beyond the small possibility that the survey will prompt discomfort from self-reflection on their own spiritual life.

Benefits to the Individual or Others: There are no foreseen benefits for participation beyond potential new insights and personal growth prompted by self-reflection on their own spiritual life.

Costs to Participate: There are no costs for participation beyond the time to complete the survey.

Confidentiality: Data gathered in this study will be strictly confidential. At the end of the survey participants will be offered a chance to supply their name and email address to be considered for prizes, allow use of the data for university assessment, and/or to be informed of future information from the researchers.

Voluntary Nature of Participation: No one is required to participate in this research project. If they do participate they can withdraw from participation at any time without penalty. Participants can choose to not answer any questions they wish to not answer on the survey except "age" which is required for compliance with Title 45 Code of Federal Regulations Part 46.

Contact Information: If participants have any questions about this research project, they can contact one of the following people: For questions about why the research is being conducted or the methodology used in the data collection: Steven Bird, stbird@taylor.edu. | There is no way to know what is true in life (24)                                                         | <input type="radio"/> | <input type="radio"/> | <input type="radio"/>          | <input type="radio"/> | <input type="radio"/> |
